Statement of Vision –
We will create a sanctuary of hope and healing around this tragic day in American history for our community, for the Country and for the world which honors the 49 lives that were taken, their families, the 68 injured victims, the affected survivors, and the first responders and healthcare professionals who cared for the victims.

Statement of Mission –
The Foundation will support the design, construction, maintenance and operation of a Memorial and Museum; community grants to care for the victims’ families and survivors; educational programs to promote amity among all segments of society; and endowed scholarships to honor each of the 49 angels.

Q: What place or memorial have you seen that you like?

The 9/11 memorial does a great job of both informing the visitors of all aspects of the tragedy, being raw and real, and also showing the unity that occurred as a result. They did not try to hide the gruesome details, rather they gave visitors an opportunity to face them should they desire. For example you could pick up phones and listen to voice messages from airplanes, or walk in to certain areas and see more emotion-jarring information if you felt you could handle it.

Pulse is in my neighborhood, I pass it everyday. June 12, 2016 is a day I will never forget and I don't want anyone else to either, it affected me in ways I find difficult to express. In as much sadness that was brought about by this tragedy I think the memorial should reflect the Joy of life! I think the memorial should try to invoke as much happiness experienced at Pulse every other day but the 12th, because there was years of happiness there! The memorial doesn't have to be a block of granite, it could be a sturdy Oak, something alive that represents the 49 beautiful lives taken from this earth but alive in sprit in our hearts. A waterfall feature with the names of the 49 could also work. Moving water represents an energy of life, it connects to all living things. The sound of water falling or cascading can be both calming and energizing. I appreciate what you're doing!

Everyday I drive by and I see the building I think to myself that I hope there is some of the original building left. Even if it is just the exterior walls, open the ceiling, or a clear roof to make it seasonally accessible of course. But it would be important for people to see the physical space.

I'm a 15 year Orlando resident from Denver. I've been here long enough that I think of Orlando as my hometown now. My daughter was born down the street from Pulse at Winnie Palmer. I am so proud that such careful consideration is going into this project to create a meaningful remembrance for the future. Like I mentioned, I wasn't impacted at all, but I have visited the site twice to pay respects and when I drive down Orange Avenue I always slow down in respect.

Anything honoring the victims and their legacy will be beautiful. Designing in a way that was true to the pulse aesthetic would be important to keep reminding us how much our little home was all about and teach others it wasn't not about being gay it was about dancing and loving life together.

We believe that the memorial should focus on victims, survivors and first responders first and foremost 90% then also include aspects of LGBTQ and terrorism/hate crime focus 10%. Obviously it is necessary to discuss events and circumstances leading up to what happened for a historical aspect but we think that focusing solely on terrorism and hate crimes will give the people who are hateful more publicity than necessary and adds to what has already been given to them.

Thank you for soliciting input for this project. I work at Orlando Health but more importantly I live less than 2 miles from this location. This is my community and I am invested. I want to not only see these brave victims memorialized but the survivors as well as our community encouraged and reminded that LOVE has won. Never did my family consider moving after this tragic event. We were scared for about a week but love won out over fear. We were not going to let fear run us out of our town or our community. So again, thank you Barbara and the rest of this Foundation for caring about those of us who were impacted indirectly.

Please try and keep some what the same structure of the building. I know it will somewhat be hard to others and myself go through their but I feel like seeing what my friend saw and what he walked before he passed away is my connection to him.

I spent my 21st birthday there the same year of the shooting, months before in fact. I wanna be able to reflect the last time I was there and how much fun it was to be there.

I hope the Pulse Memorial is a true reflection of the HORRIBLE event that happened and a tribute to the victims, survivors, their friends and family.

Pulse needs this. Orlando needs this. Those grieving need this. It needs to be something that people can go to and mourn and learn and feel accepted. Orlando and the LGBT+ community needs this and they needed it sooner rather than later, especially with Vegas shooting.

I hope that one day all of the pain and suffering will end and we will all get to live in unity, with peace and love. God bless all of those involved in the Pulse and Las Vegas shootings. One day, justice will come for the lives that were taken from us too soon <3

I think this memorial needs to be a place to honor the victims of this tragedy and bring awareness to LGBT rights. I think it also needs to be a place to celebrate differences as well as provide strength and hope to our community. After the tragedy our community showed its strength and support for the victims and survivors. We need to honor the victims but also acknowledge the ways in which our community came together to show support and solidarity during such a tragedy.

As a survivor and having to have lost a boyfriend (Cory Connell) I believe that if a memorial is to be made, that the people that are creating it should look at it as a whole! For the past year, this terrorist attack has been publicized by being a hate crime with LBGTQ+ murals and banners. My whole football team is in the LBGTQ+ community and I have nothing against them. I just believe that everyone should be represented, not just them alone. My boyfriend that died and I should have an equal representation of our selves. I would really love if this memorial for ones, doesn't represent just LBGTQ+ community. Please include everyone, Thank you!

I live and work in Orlando and both professionally & personally I have been affected by the tragic events that took place at Pulse. I work for a major department store and our company has always been very involved in our community, but this event has changed us forever. It’s hard to describe the sense of community and love shown by the people of Orlando. This was a tragic and hideous act of hatred but I think it's important that the memorial somehow captures the true Spirit Of The People Of Orlando. I live my life as a proud gay man but I've never been one that has flaunted the Pride Flag. Being gay doesn't define me but rather is just a part of what makes me, me. The Pride flag took on a completely different meaning in the days, week, months and year after Pulse. It wasn't a symbol of GLBTQ Pride anymore in Orlando, but rather a symbol of the strength and love of the people of Orlando. I feel that (2) important places that are just as important as the actual Pulse location are the Doctor Philips Center for the Performing Arts and Lake Eola. These are important because they are the (2) main meeting places after the shootings and should be included in some way.

I would like to see something that honors the deceased and survivors. It would be nice if it didn't focus totally on ethnicity, sexual orientation, etc. Definitely give the facts/truth but incorporate the humanitarian aspect i.e. not everyone there was lgbtq. Show love for everyone from everyone.

The Pulse building needs to be torn down. We will NEVER be able to remove the holes in the concrete in the back from our memory, but seeing them just perpetuates the sorrow, anger, pain. They represent hate, and a new building needs to represent love, acceptance, community. Build a new building, purpose built for a place of remembrance and to contain a revolving exhibit about the attack and it's aftermath.

I would like to see the original pulse building and location preserved, not demolished or altered. I would also love to see a new club in a nearby location as an exact replica of the original. Pulse Orlando had a great design and atmosphere that so many loved. #onelove #onepulse #oneorlando

We should make sure that this is in memory of those lost, that this promotes love, and acceptance and educates people. As time passes this could be used as a good educational tool as well as a memory of love in honor of those so tragically lost.

The memorial should have rainbows, color, lights at night 24/7. This was a hate crime targeting the LGBTQx community. A maintained garden, a sanctuary of peace and love open to all. A gathering place for community education and outreach to those most at risk of violent acts in relation to race, gender, religion, orientation etc.

Survivors and their families should have their choices weighted much heavier than those of us from the community who were not directly affected.

The memorial should emphasize that most of the victims were LGBTQ+ people and that most of them were Latinx. Many of them were Puerto Rican. The memorial should also inspire hope and strength for all visitors, but especially for the LGBTQ+ community. It should also have an educational section or a section dedicated to activism in order to inspire and engage both LGBTQ+ people and Allies. It would be a good idea to have a section or area with resources for LGBTQ people and, especially, for Allies, since not all visitors will be members of the LGBTQ+ community. The memorial should also have a quiet space for reflection and a space to honor the victims. Please do not straight-wash and/or white-wash the site or this tragic event.

I would like to see Pulse, while recognizing & honoring those lost, become a place full of life, music & dancing! Those who hate must not be allowed, by violence or intimidation, to rob of our joy in living...or they will have won by default.

I would like to see these wonderful vibrant young people remembered for their vitality. I would like to see them honored and remembered because they did nothing wrong and were victims of hate. They cannot be forgotten. We must keep their memory alive.

The focus should be on unity and how Orlando came together that night against evil. I want us to be united not only as an LGBTQ+ community, but as Americans. Our nation was attacked that night by a terrorist. We united that night, during the worst tragedy in our city's history. We came together to save lives and stop the terrorist. We were one Orlando and we were United.

Please provide survivors as well. We are a family that have stuck together and have gone through these pains together and will forever live with this pain. Main focus should be the victims and a place for the family etc.

Making a memorial about a tragedy at a LGBT nightclub is certainly a daunting task - what some will want to see to honor the victims may be seen as out-of-place to others. So major props to everyone on the committee who are putting themselves forward to make these decisions!

I believe the memorial should not only honor the victims and those associate with the club and the tragedy, I think the memorial should honor Pulse - the nightclub - itself and what it stood for to so many in the community. I think a lot of the physical attributes of the actual club should be reflected in the design, such as the window waterfalls, the chandelier, and the amazing all-white room with the color lights from when the club first opened. Those types of visual elements will help invoke positive happy memories from days gone by.
